

THE TERMINAL MAN

PRESS RELEASE

4 August 2010

The Terminal Man Returns

For the first time since 1984–86, the cult comic strip featured in Crash and Zzap!64 magazines will be published as a complete story in a 52-page book.

This collectors' edition penned by former-2000AD editor Kelvin Gosnell and drawn by Oliver Frey is being reprinted from the digitally remastered originals – apart from three pages, for which the artwork went missing. These are being accurately repainted from the printed version by Oli at the moment (although, strangely, the original balloon overlays exist...).

Fully priced, inclusive of delivery, at £18.95, copies can be pre-ordered at <http://oliverfreyart.com> for an exclusive introductory offer of £17.95 until the end of September. And in addition, the first 50 copies ordered will be sent out personally dedicated and signed by Oli. The offer went live on 2 August and has already attracted a lot of attention and pre-orders.

With a short foreword by the Newsfield co-founder and former editor of both Crash and Zzap!64, Roger Kean, publication is set for early to mid-October. Pre-ordering requires no up-front payment, which will be advised at the time of publication and made through PayPal.

Reckless BOOKS

cover artwork subject to change

For further information contact:

Roger Kean
roger@olirog.orangehome.co.uk
roger.m.kean@gmail.com

